OnTask: An Electronic Signature Solution for Lawyers

The Common Challenge

While most law professionals already have an eSignature solution in place, getting signatures on documents like client intake, NDAs, financial affidavits, and whatever else your firm works on is still a struggle. Solutions like DocuSign can be great for collecting a signature, however, it leaves much to be desired when it comes to automating the before and after steps of getting a document signed.

Things like manual follow-ups on documents that are waiting to be signed, post-signing document storage, and routing documents to the correct parties after a signing ceremony adds extra steps and confusion for everyone involved. Finding a solution that does all of this and also plays nicely with your CRM and already standing data rooms can be frustrating. But, we guarantee that there's a better, less painful way to collect eSignatures.

How OnTask Simplifies eSignatures for Legal Professionals

OnTask offers secure, legally binding signatures that go beyond the signing ceremony. OnTask allows you to automate your legal documents from start to finish. Complete with automated email routing to notify all parties when it's time to sign and when signing is complete, built-in reminders and follow-ups for outstanding documents, and CRM integration that allows you to automatically store collected documents in your system of choice. With the help of OnTask, you can ditch your old way of doing things and make collecting signatures easier for all parties involved.
